classical work of social anthropology, African Political Systems (1940), edited by Fortes and Evans-Pritchard, this book looks at the colonial and academic context from which the work arose, as well as its reception and its subject matter, and looks at how the work can help with analysis of current politics in Africa. This book critically reflects upon the history of anthropology. It also contributes to a political anthropology which is aware of its antecedents, self-reflexive as a discipline, conscious of pitfalls and biases, and able to locate itself in its academic, social and political environment.

06-1, Reporting Pursuant to the Global Investment Performance Standards This Statement of Position (SOP) has been issued to guide practitioners with engagements to examine and report on aspects of an investment firm's compliance with the Global Investment Performance Standards (GIPS® standards). In addition, this SOP provides guidance on engagements to examine and report on the performance results of specific composites in conformity with applicable guidance. Presentation of an investment firm's past performance can be a powerful tool for attracting new clients. These presentations have been the focus for the past several years due to market forces, competition, and consolidation. To promote fair representation and greater comparability in performance presentations, CFA Institute created the GIPS standards. Many investment firms' claim of compliance with these standards has been regarded as providing a competitive advantage. This SOP updates SOP 06-1,

Complex Systems in Sport

Keith Davids 2013-11-20

Complex systems in nature are those with many interacting parts, all capable of influencing global system outcomes. There is a growing body of research that has modeled sport performance from a complexity sciences perspective, studying the behavior of individual athletes and sports teams as emergent phenomena which self-organise under interacting constraints. This book is the first to bring together experts studying complex systems in the context of sport from across the world to collate core theoretical ideas, current methodologies and existing data into one comprehensive resource. It offers new methods of analysis for investigating representative complex sport movements and actions at an individual and team level, exploring the application of methodologies from the complexity sciences in the context of sports performance and the organization of sport practice. Complex Systems in Sport is important reading for any advanced student or researcher working in sport and exercise science, sports coaching, kinesiology or human movement.
